The board questioned the report mentioning the “observation of multiple baggies inside of the black fanny pack” when he wasn’t arrested on drug charges and there was no evidence of drugs in the baggies. The board believed the mention of the drugs in the report showed the perception that the offender was a drug dealer and it wasn’t relevant to the charges he was arrested on. Also, board members believed that the report should clarify there were no drugs found in the car or in his possession.
